Auricular therapy includes acupuncture, electroacupuncture, acupressure, lasering, cauterization, moxibustion, and bloodletting in the auricle. For 2500 years, people have employed auricular therapy for treating diseases, but the methods have been limited to bloodletting and cauterization. Only after 1957, the international scientific community became aware that the map of the ear resembles an inverted fetus, its introduction has led to auricular acupuncture (AA) becoming a more systemic ...

The Evolution of Auricular Confession The Catholic Church teaches that the Lord Jesus Christ instituted the Sacrament of Penance and the private confession to a priest. The Council of Trent sternly warns those who deny that auricular confession was commanded by Christ. If anyone denies that sacramental confession was instituted by divine law or is necessary to salvation; or says that the ...
